LOUISIANA LOYALTY

Oh, our team is brave and peer-less,
 As its playing shows;
 They are gal-lant men and fear-less
 Of the strong-est foes.
 And out on the foot-ball field
 They were nev-er known to yield,
 As ev-ry team we play soon knows.
 And our band plays mu-sic stir-ring;
 That is very true;
 And we do some noi-sy cheer-ing,
 Yes in-deed we do.
 For the Pur-ple and the Gold
 Has at-tained such fame un-told,
 That we're al-ways proud to stand-by you.

Now, come on ev-ry fel-low here,
 And we'll give them a rous-ing cheer:
 Hullabaloo! Hullabaloo!
 (rah-rah) (rah-rah)
 Hullabaloo; for L. S. U.

Lou-is-i-ana, the Pride of Dix-ie Land,
 With skies so blue and fa-i-r,
 We pledge to the-e our heart and hand;
 Thy hopes and thy fears we sha-r-e.
 For un-ion, jus-tice, and con-fi-dence we stand,
 And al-ways will we up-hold
 The name and fame of our dear old Lou-is-i-an'—
 The Pur-ple and the Gold.

—Copyright Pending.

OFFICIAL L. S. U. SONG

Every man stand staunch and true for L. S. U.
 Don't forget we've got the stuff to push right through;
 Let your eye run down the line—then you'll soon make up your mind,
 Better men you'll never find—they're all true blue.

Chorus.

Hurrah, boys! Hurrah, boys! It's no pipe dream;
 Hurrah, boys! Hurrah, boys! for the Tiger team;
 Butt right through, that's what they'll do; bet your life they're all true blue—
 Give a yell and whoop 'er up for L. S. U.

Every one who's got a voice stand up and sing;
 Show them we're behind them, boys, so make it ring;
 Lift your hats and give a cheer; they're the champions of the year—
 They're the boys we hold most dear, they're all true blue.

(By R. P. Himes.)
 Air—"Spanish Cavalier."

The Louisiana Tigers are out on the field,
 Defending the Old Gold and Purple;
 They will not retreat, they know not defeat—
 Louisiana Tigers forever!

Louisiana fair—the Tigers are there,
 Playing the game where they conquer;
 They mash through the line, their play is mighty fine—
 Louisiana Tigers forever!

Cadets and Co-Eds fair and rooters all were there,
 Cheering for the Old Gold and Purple;
 The Profs. were on the stand, Alumni were on hand—
 Louisiana Tigers forever!

Oh! say, Rooters, say, what shall we do,
 Out on the football arena?
 We'll give the Tiger yell—we'll surely give them hell—
 Louisiana Tigers forever!

Rules to be Remembered for a Clear Understanding of the Game

When the ball is carried by one team over its opponent's goal line, the result is called a touchdown, and counts five points. The winners bring the ball back into the field 15 yards, and try to kick it over the cross bar and between the goal posts. If this is done the result is goal, which counts one more point.

If the ball is dropped on the ground and then kicked over the cross bar and between the goal posts during the play from field, the result is goal from field, and counts three points.

When the ball is held on the ground by one player and kicked by another of the same side, without a touchdown having been made it is called a place kick. If the ball goes over bar and between goal posts, it counts three points.

When a forward pass is made, and the ball touches the ground before a player catches it, the ball is brought back to the spot from where it was passed and counts as a down. A ball thrown into the air or punted is anyone's ball; a member of either team may catch it. When a ball is kicked over the opponent's goal line and a player in that team catches it and touches it down, the team getting the ball is permitted to kick from 25-yard line or scrimmage.

When a ball is punted, and a player on the opposite side catches it without moving from the place where he signaled for a free catch—raised his arm—the team which he represents is permitted a free kick for goal from the place where the ball has been caught. The opposing team lines up ten yards from the ball.

The officials are a referee, an umpire, a field judge, one or two timers, and a head linesman. The referee is the chief official, and has charge of all matters pertaining to the ball; he decides to which side the ball belongs, how many yards have been gained or lost, and when points have been made. The umpire watches the men for offenses against the rules and inflicts penalties for such violations as he sees. The field judge assists the umpire in watching the players and inflicting penalties. The timekeepers keep the time; allowances are made for all stoppages. The linesmen follow the ball with their ten-yard chain at the direction of the referee, and enable him to determine distances accurately.

A forward pass to be successful must be caught by an eligible man while in the air. In case the pass is not successful or fumbled in any manner and allowed to touch the ground, the ball goes back to the line of scrimmage and counts as a down. No penalty.

The chief difference between the new rules of 1910 consists in the abolishment of the flying tackle, and the limitations placed on the forward pass and the onside kick. When a forward pass or a kick is made, the territory between the point where the ball was put in play and a point 20 yards in advance of that point may be called the neutral zone, for in that territory no player may interfere with an opponent while he is attempting to catch a pass or to go down the field under a kick. Any player of the defending side may catch a forward pass but only the men in the back field and the men playing on the ends of the line of the attacking side may catch it. No player of the attacking side may touch a kicked ball until it has gone 20 yards beyond the line of scrimmage, or has been touched by one of the defending side; but after a kicked ball has touched the ground 20 or more yards beyond the line of scrimmage, any player of either side may get it.

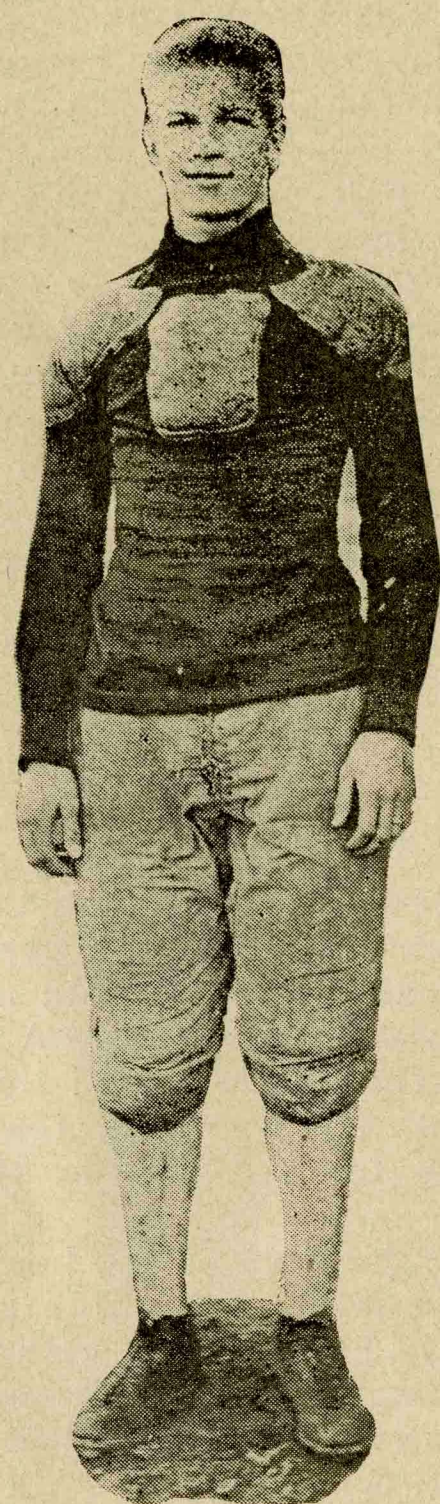

The time of the game is four periods of fifteen minutes each, time being taken out when the play is delayed for any cause. There is a two minute intermission between the first and second and between the third and fourth quarters, with an intermission of fifteen minutes between the second and third quarters. At the beginning of the second and fourth quarters the teams change goals, and the ball is put into play on the opposite end of the field from where it was when the previous quarter ended, at a point that exactly corresponds to the point where it was when time was called for the previous quarter.

EXPLANATION OF THE RULES OF FOOTBALL.

A touchdown counting five points, is made when a team carries the ball over the opponent's goal line. If a goal is then kicked, it counts one point additional. A field goal is made by kicking the ball from the field of play between the goal posts and over the bar. It counts three points. A safety is made when a team kicks or carries the ball over its own goal line and there touches it down. It counts two points for the opposing team. A touchback occurs when a player kicks or passes the ball across the opponent's goal line. It counts nothing.

The ball must be kicked off from the center of the field at the beginning of each half, and after each touchdown and field goal. The side getting possession of the ball may attempt to advance it by running with it, by kicking or passing it forward from line of scrimmage. The ball must be advanced at least ten yards in three trials or "downs" or the ball is given over to the other side. A forward pass is illegal whenever it strikes the ground, or if it goes more than 20 yards beyond the point where it was put in play. A kicked ball must go at least 20 yards down the field before it can be recovered by one of the kicking side. Both the forward pass and the kick must be made from a point not less than five yards behind the line of scrimmage.

Penalties are inflicted for any violation of a rule, such as starting before the ball is put in play, holding an opponent (except the man with the ball), the use of the hands in interference by the side carrying the ball, etc. In the case of most penalties, five yards is given the offended side, but in some cases the distance is ten or fifteen yards.

JONES HOUSE FURNISHING CO.

LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS

Since the foregoing was placed in type, the magnificent new store of The Jones House Furnishing Co., has been, with its stock, totally destroyed by fire—destroyed within two weeks after moving into the new edifice built on the ruins of the old. However, they are coming again. They have leased the old Kress stores on Main, starting off with a train load of goods shipped for the new store, taken over part of the stock of the Argenta store and will rebuild bigger and better than ever. It will be worth your while to hunt up these people and get acquainted with Claudius Jones.
